

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

The government built this fish landing facilities in addition to developing the potential of Popoh, government also give serve, facilities, and welfare of the community. The government provides facilities to increase people's income. The availability of such facilities is capable of providing ease of the local communities.

1. In the development of PPI Popoh, there is good cooperation between the government and the community. The government doing its part as well as the availability of facilities and regulations. The government is cooperating with the local communities as fishermen and traders. Regulation and facility provided the government may increase the welfare of local communities. The communities can perform its function well. They sort of feeds program that made and provide feedback to the government. The government can fulfill its function as regulator, stability, facilitator, mediator, and dynamist, while the communities were able to maintain their rights protected, influencing the policy made by the government, overseeing SDM that can develop or communicating between societies. The evidence of the partnership between the government and the community is the existence of infrastructure development and the harmonization between them. PPI Popoh is indeed new, but the government can manage it well and the relationship between them make easier in creating policies that can improve the welfare of the local community. It is also can speed up the process of the development of PPI Popoh.

2. The accountability, transparency and participant from the good governance can increase the development of PPI Popoh. The corporation of society and government make the good communications. The communication make the society can give aspiration to government about the needed of society. The government can manage the participant and government have the transparency about the fund and program from the local government. Accountability from the government and society make the PPI Popoh more develop.
3. In the development of PPI Popoh, there are some restricting and supporting factors. The restricting factors are the lack of employees, the infrastructural supports, and the facilities. While the supporting factors are the area which is adjunct to Popoh tourism, and the location of Popoh beach which is not far from the main roads so make the distribution easily.

5.2 Suggestion

With the study and analysis on the partnership between the government and the communities in the development of PPI Popoh, so the researcher can provide suggestions. Suggestions that the researcher give is, expected to be a consideration in determining policies. Here are some suggestions;

1. PPI Popoh needs more employees to back up the head of PPI Popoh. The lack of employees make many jobs are delayed or unsolved.
2. The lack of infrastructural including fleets, development of building, completeness in fishing process, and policy boundary fishing. The addition of a larger ship assistance, so the fishermen can fishing to the sea and earn more. It is because most of the fishermen have small boats so that fishermen could not stay in the sea. And the result was less then the expenditure, if using a large ship, they can facilitate to stay at sea.
3. The facilities in PPI Popoh were good, yet there are still lacking. Provision of landfills for trash is still not ready, so that it was accumulated in the mountain. This can cause the damage to the environment. Car hauler of trash also does not exist.
4. To give an academic contribution to other researcher about the cooperation between the government and the communities in the development of an area.
5. To give a contribution to other researcher especially who want to discuss about the partnership between the government and the communities.
